

High Water Is Causing Loss Along Two Rivers

Power Plant Here Partially Crippled When Water Gets Into Generator

NEW LONDON UNDER WATER
Second and Fifth Wards Flooded—Thousands of Acres Inundated

Damage running into thousands of dollars is being caused by high water in the Fox and Wolf rivers today. Water in the Fox river is only two inches below the highest mark established in 1920 and there is no indication of a drop for a day or two. Melting snow along the Wolf river and its tributaries is expected to keep up the level and it may rise above the 1920 mark, according to information received here.

A large part of the Second and Fifth wards of New London is under water and thousands of acres along the Wolf river are inundated. The dam at Pella, on the Embarras river, went out Saturday, permitting an immense volume of water to rush into the Wolf river. It was reported at Shawano that the dam there is intact and the water level is not excessively high. About two feet of snow still remains in the woods north of that city and there is a possibility that the level will increase rapidly if the warm weather continues.

GATES ARE OPEN
The high wind Sunday lashed the water into waves which threatened to destroy the river bank east of the Lake-St. bridge here. Crews of men worked the greater part of the day throwing rocks into the swirling water to protect the bank.

Every gate in the Fox river is open and water is unrestricted in its flow. Lowland along the river is under several feet of water.

One generator in the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power Co. plant was put out of commission Sunday when water came into the power room. A large cable was under water, making it necessary to take it up. It may be several days before the damage is repaired. The loss will total several hundred dollars.

Boathouses along the river are flooded, causing considerable loss. Some anxiety has been felt for the needle dam near the Fox river mill but it is said it will stand the strain.

Ice is piled up as high as the tree tops on the shore between Brighton and Waverly beaches. The high wind from the southwest whipped the water and ice into angry waves which carried the huge ice floes on the land. Several cottages were damaged and the bathhouse at Brighton beach was partially wrecked. It was the first time in many years that ice had piled up along that shore.

A washout on the Chicago and Northwestern line near Oconto delayed trains from the north. The train due here at 2 o'clock Monday morning was four hours late. It is reported, however, that a dam went out near Oconto.

When Pella dam went out a flood of water came down the Embarras river, overflowing the banks and causing havoc in New London where the Second and Fifth wards are entirely under water, causing isolation of every building in that section as well as flooding practically every basement in the city. Scores of houses are inaccessible except by boat.

The water has run six inches in the city in the last 24 hours and has raised a foot since Saturday afternoon, sending the water to a new high water mark of 10.7 feet over a mark of 10.6 feet established in 1914. Further complications are feared, for the Manawa dam on the Little Wolf river was expected to give out at any time late Monday morning.

Water is a foot deep on Shawano-St. from the bridge to the Green Bay Depot. A stream is running along North Water-st. as far as Milwaukee-st. and then along side streets into the Wolf river.

James Poppe, chairman of the town of Milwaukee and a crowd of men worked all Saturday and Sunday in an effort to prevent the North Port road from being washed out. The men were using sand bags to divert the flow of water. Water is running over the wall of the city power house, a condition which never before existed during a flood there.

The city fire pump is being used to pump water from the city hall basement. Every basement in the business district is flooded. The W. J. Sader jewelry store and the Bank of New London are the only two buildings that were heated by furnaces Monday.

Automatic pumps are being used in the First National bank and the M. C. Traylor drug store. Children of the North side were unable to reach school Monday morning, the water having entirely surrounded the building.

In Kaukauna the water raised to an unexpected height Saturday evening. Although it has not reached the high water mark, a flood of water of about a foot deep was pouring over the power dam Sunday afternoon.

High water in the town of Cicero caused a wooden bridge on highway D to be washed out. The structure was built on a stone abutment and the water carried this foundation from beneath the timbers. A. G. Brusewitz, highway commissioner, sent a crew of men to the spot immediately and put up a temporary bridge while the other is being rebuilt.

Ford Day Program And Bargains Bring Hundreds To City

LOYALIST ARMY
DEFEATS REBELS

Free State Troops Recapture Barracks From Which They Had Been Driven

By United Press Leased Wire
Dublin—Free state troops, driven from Broadford barracks in Cork by Irish republic insurgents, Monday stormed and recaptured the barracks, completely defeating the rebel force.
One free state soldier was killed in the counter attack. This was the first occasion on which loyal troops, ousted from their barracks have returned to the attack and beaten the insurgents.

Dublin has a report Monday that Irish republican extremists had ousted Fiamon De Valera from the leadership of the insurgents. At a secret meeting of rebel army chiefs, the former "president of the Irish republic" was deposed by his followers and an aggressive gunman, chairman appointed in his place, according to information reaching the free state officials who accept it with reserve.
A sensation was caused in Dublin Sunday by the presence on the streets of armed patrols of British military who policed the city for the first time since the truce.

De Valeraite plans for a demonstration were thwarted by this intervention and the day that was to have seen a crisis in the Irish insurrection passed quietly.

SEEK YOUTH FOR DEATH OF DRIVER

Virginia, Minn.—A coroner's jury was called Monday, to probe the mysterious death of William Ruzic, taxicab driver, whose body was found late Sunday by a sheriff's posse four miles south of Bear River.

Ruzic had been killed by blows on the head with a blunt instrument. It was believed he had been dead since last Thursday night. A young man about 20 years old asked Ruzic to drive him to the Bear River district. Ruzic had not been seen alive since that time. The young man, it was learned, later appeared at a farmhouse near Cook. Authorities are searching for him. They do not believe robbery was the motive.
Ruzic's wife is ill and he has five children here.

WISCONSIN RIVER IS RUNNING OVER BANKS

Stevens Point.—With all highways west of here closed, flood water conditions of the Wisconsin river valley reached a climax Monday. Highways were five and six feet under water and thousands of acres of marsh and farm lands were flooded.

No heavy property damage has been reported thus far, but thousands of residents of this flooded area are in danger and are making plans to make a hasty retreat should the water rise any higher.

A Linwood farmer was nearly drowned this morning when his horse and buggy was swept from the road by flood waters which attained a depth of five feet.

The flood has been caused by weeks of rain and the melting of snow and ice between this city and Merrill.

Interesting Program is Offered on Gala Day—Merchants
Cooperating to Make Event
Huge Success.

Power farming, the way to greater agricultural profit, will be the theme of the massmeeting to be held at 1:30 Wednesday afternoon in the armory in connection with the community merchandising day and formal opening of the August Brandt Co. garage.

Hundreds of farmers are expected to flock to Appleton to participate in the many events that will mark this big trade day. There will be "something doing" every minute from 9 o'clock in the morning. Some of the more important features are the giving away of several hundred dollars worth of merchandise donated by merchants to Brandt garage for distribution, and the conducting of contests for which prizes will be awarded. Jazz bands will give street concerts and it is expected that merchants will have clowns and other entertainers on in numbers to liven the event.

ALL KINDS OF PRIZES
The farmer with the biggest family, the oldest Ford or the most dilapidated machine will be among those who will receive prizes in the many contests. The tallest and shortest, heaviest and lightest, oldest and youngest and other persons or families with extreme qualifications may qualify for some of the gifts. Full details will be given out at the Brandt garage, where everybody is expected to visit sometime during the morning.

Speakers at the forenoon massmeeting in the armory will be H. M. Ruckley, W. P. Loomis and Mrs. C. E. Hatch of Milwaukee, who will take up the subject of power farming and other modern methods of farming.

Moving picture films showing power farming applied will be shown, and a few comic films will be run during the afternoon to amuse both children and grownups. Dr. R. C. Finkle of Seymour has consented to perform sleight-of-hand tricks. The Seymour "hick" band will give a musical program.
Lunches may be eaten at noon at the Ford garage, where special facilities will be provided and hot coffee served free.

Almost every merchant in Appleton has arranged some shopping bargains for the benefit of the thousands of visitors expected here. It will be a big trading day as well as a time of pleasure, because of the offerings planned by various stores.

HARDING LOOKS WITH FAVOR ON SIX YEAR TERM

President is Convinced Single Term of Six Years Will Work Out Better

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—President Harding has become convinced that a single term of six years for American presidents with no reelection thereafter would better serve the interests of the people than the present method.

Close friends who have discussed the subject with him say that one year in office has revealed to him so many phases of the presidency which would be benefited by a single term that from an impersonal basis he is of the opinion now that a constitutional amendment providing for the change would be a good thing. Representative Wood of Indiana has already introduced a bill covering such an amendment to the federal constitution but it takes a two-thirds vote of the senate and house as well as approval by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states of the union to make the change effective.

How would it ever get started? Would President Harding agree not to become a candidate for reelection for a four year term or could the amendment be made to cover the present term of Mr. Harding? These questions have been discussed by members of the cabinet and constitutional lawyers in inner circles of the government and many of them suggest that if it would not be misconstrued they think the same amendment to the constitution could automatically prolong by two years Mr. Harding's term and make him ineligible for reelection to the six year term.

TOO MANY ELECTIONS
"There are too many ill effects from presidential elections," said one influential member of the cabinet today. "There's always a letdown in business in a presidential year. Four years is too frequent an interval. Six years would give a president the opportunity to put through a complete program. I believe also that congressmen should be elected for four years and senators for six years. We get better results in the senate where the term of office is six years than in the house where everybody is up for election every two years. As for eight years for an American president—it is too much."

As to the suggestion of prolonging Mr. Harding's present term by two years, there are precedents for this in many of the state constitutions. It might of course be opposed by the Democrats on the ground that such a step would not give them an opportunity to put into office for those two years a Democratic president and the amendment might be fought on partisan lines and thus defeated in the state legislatures. The changes are that an amendment providing that the term of the president after 1924 shall be for two years and that the successful candidate shall be ineligible for reelection thereafter would be much more favorably received and that after 1926 the first six year term for president shall take effect with no reelection thereafter.

By United Press Leased Wire
Huntingdon, Pa.—Emerging from a mental haze, Dr. Herbert Bryson was horrified Monday when informed by police he was accused of killing his beautiful young wife at their home at Cassville, near here.

After exhaustively questioning Dr. Bryson, who is a shellshocked war veteran, police said they were confident he had no knowledge of having shot the girl and then transported her dying but still conscious in a hearse in a wild drive over mountain roads to this city.

District Attorney Charles D. Fetterhoff announced his investigation made him believe the shooting was the result of a trivial quarrel aggravated by the nervous temperament of the shellshocked physician.

DELEGATES OF 34 NATIONS IN GENOA PARLEY

Italian Premier Facta is Unanimously Elected President of Conclave

SEEK PEACE IN EUROPE

Russia and Germany Are Given Places at World Diplomatic Conference

By United Press Leased Wire
St. Georges Palace, Genoa.—David Lloyd George Monday challenged the Russian delegation to accept allied conditions as a basis for its presence at the Genoa economic conference, or withdrawal.
In a speech which drew applause from the 157 delegates gathered in the council hall for the opening session of the most impressive international conference since Versailles, the British premier declared the program for the parley was the program laid down at Cannes, France, by the supreme council.

St. Georges Palace, Genoa.—Premier Luigi Facta of Italy opened the Genoa economic conference late Monday afternoon with a speech of welcome to the 157 delegates, representing 34 nations of the world.
Facta was unanimously elected president of the conclave.
"The spirit of the Washington arms conference must inspire this gathering," Premier Facta said in his opening address.

"The cloud that hung over the Pacific already has disappeared as a result of the limitation of arms conference," the Italian statesman declared, amid applause. "We at Genoa must now work for the peace of Europe in the same way."

ITALY IS HONORED
Europe's greatest conference since Versailles was called to order at 3:10 p. m. Around the long rectangular tables in the gorgeous council hall, the leading statesmen of the old world faced those of the new. Occidentals and Orientals were mingled with no preference of rank and late evening states sat for the first time as equals with the allies.
The place of honor was occupied by Italy, as host of the gathering. On the right of the Italian delegation sat Lloyd George and the British representatives, Marquis Curzon and Sir Robert Horne. Beyond the British were the Belgians. On the left of Senator Schanzer, who with Luigi Facta, represented Italy, sat the French and Japanese delegates. These five nations were members of the allied supreme council under whose auspices the conference was called.

RUSSIA ON END
After the delegates from these nations had been seated, those from the remaining 29 nations were seated according to alphabetical order. This brought Albania, Europe's newest nation, to a place of prominence with Germany half way down and the Russians in whom the greatest interest was displayed, at the extreme end of the council table, under the press gallery. Tchitcherine and his fellow members of the soviet delegation, sat so that they faced the allied representatives.

Following Facta's opening address, which was received with warm applause, Lloyd George arose to speak. The first act of the British premier was to propose the unanimous election of Premier Facta to the chairmanship of the conference. Louis Barthou, French minister of justice, and head of the French delegation, followed.

All liability for the marketing of cheese lies on the inspector and none on the retailer, the department announced.

Coroner's Jury Finds Thomas
Krusenberry Killed Two Men

Antigo—Murder in the first degree is the charge against Tom Krusenberry, who surrendered after shooting and killing Matt Brooks and Frank Wiggins at Lily Saturday, and who will be arraigned Monday.
A coroner's jury found that the two men had come to their death from shots fired by Krusenberry. Five witnesses were examined, although there were no eye witnesses to the shooting. Two men who arrived on the scene shortly after the shooting, testified that they found Wiggins dead and that Brooks lived about 15 minutes.

According to the witnesses, Krusenberry ran up the road following the shooting where he met a man and told him what he had done. Following the man's advice, Krusenberry gave himself up to the authorities.
No knife was found on either Wiggins or Brooks except a small pen knife which was closed in Brooks' pocket.
Wiggins recently came here from Indiana or Ohio and bore the nickname "Cut Throat" Frank, because of an ugly scar on his neck.
Brooks is survived by a wife and seven children.

August Brandt company's handsome new garage building at the corner of College-ave. and Superior-st., which is to be opened to the public formally next Wednesday, is another striking example of the romance of business.

In completion of this structure there is consummated a story of 15 years of enterprise by August Brandt, president of the company, who began as an implement dealer in one corner of a furniture store at Black Creek, and building through the automotive ranks, now has one of the largest Ford agencies in the state, with about 40 people in his organization.

Mrs. Mildred H. Gardner, policewoman, got in her first blow at ungentlemanly street conduct Saturday night when Harold Duba of Chicago was arrested on College-ave. on a charge of drunkenness.

Duba appeared before Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Monday morning and was fined $10 and costs, or a total of $14.30.

It was stated by the police that Duba was with several other young men in a flirtation attempt. The group then entered an ice cream parlor, where Duba became noisy and used obscene language.

Mrs. Gardner watched the performance and then summoned Detective Joseph Schmirler, who placed Duba under arrest. He was confined in the lockup until Monday morning.

"This is to be one of the regular duties of Mrs. Gardner from now on," said Chief George T. Prim. "She will keep watch of the young men who frequent the avenue and will stop disorders, especially when young women are annoyed."

STEEL COMPANY

Pittsburg, Pa.—The United States Steel corporation Monday met United Mine Workers threat to tie up its rich coal properties in the Connellsville region by closing down one of its biggest steel plants here.

The American Steel and Wire company works closed, throwing 1,500 men into unemployment. Curtailment will also be made in the steel corporation's big plant in Donora where 5,000 men are employed. Shortage of coal is the reason given.

Company's Petition

MAY QUASH INDICTMENTS
Attorney General Daugherty Visits Miner Headquarters in Indiana

Charleston, W. Va.—One of the most drastic injunctions against labor in recent years was issued by Federal Judge McClintic here Monday.

The temporary restraining order prevents all further attempts of United Mine Workers of America to organize the union field in West Virginia and eastern Kentucky and orders the ten colonies in Mingo county disbanded.

The court action was taken on application of the Borderland Coal company filed last October simultaneously with a petition to Judge Anderson in the federal district of Indiana to abolish the check off. Judge Anderson's decision against the check off has never been effective.

The temporary injunction was granted to maintain order in this nonunion field during the present coal strike, Judge McClintic said.

SCENE OF WARFARE
The tent colonies in Mingo county housed striking miners and their families for more than a year. The miners were ejected from company owned homes when they joined the union.

Mingo county has been the scene of continued warfare for more than two years as a result of troubles between the operators and union leaders.
Judge McClintic Saturday night issued a temporary order restraining union efforts in the Winding Gulf field where union officials planned to hold mass meetings Sunday.

The order Monday was more extensive, including all of district 17 comprising West Virginia and part of Kentucky and also threatened the life of the tent colonies throughout the Mingo county fields.

MAY QUASH INDICTMENTS
Indianapolis.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty invaded the center of union activities in the nation wide coal strike Monday presumably to take the government's first concrete action toward ending the suspension.

The attorney general was understood to be preparing a motion to quash the government's conspiracy charges against 226 coal mine owners and union officials returned by a federal grand jury here under the Sherman anti-trust law in the spring of 1920.

Many operators in refusing to enter interstate wage negotiations with union representatives gave as their reason the pending charges which were aimed at collective bargaining practiced in the wage scale conference. They declared the nature of the indictments prohibited such conferences as provided by the scale committee ruling expiring April 1.

Prosecution of the government's case has been delayed while operators and union officials living outside of Indiana fought legal proceedings seeking to remove them from the jurisdiction of Judge Anderson's court here.

Another week of slaughtering meat prices!
Just received another carload of Leaf Lard and we are urging the public to put in their supply now at

10 1/2c Per Pound

We are proving to the public that our predictions are true and also that our advertising at all times is fair and honest. We want to convince the public that the time to put in their supply of Leaf Lard is when the price is the lowest. We can assure you that when we advertise, we stand back of it.

Furthermore we will not have the public load up on high-priced goods when we know that the price is going to be lower. And we hope that the public will appreciate what we have done for them in this Leaf Lard Sale. We are sure that every economical housewife who had the misfortune of buying high-priced Leaf Lard will realize her mistake and will not be too hasty in the future to stock up on high-priced goods.

CENTER VALLEY IS IMPORTANT SHIPPING POINT

Immense Quantities of Cabbage and Sugar Beets to be Shipped This Year

Farmers of Center Valley are planning to devote a great portion of their land this summer to sugar beets and cabbage according to John Schwamner, a member of the county board, who assisted in canvassing the vote of Outagamie-co. at the courthouse Friday.

Mr. Schwamner said a sugar beet dump representing an investment of several thousand dollars is to be put in at their shipping point by one of the sugar beet factories which has leased 2,000 acres of land in that part of the county for the coming season. This will make it possible for beet growers to unload their beets in less than quarter of the time it formerly took to do the work by hand.

As to cabbage the supervisor said the demand for sauerkraut last fall had opened a new field for that crop. Mr. Schwamner has been buying cabbage for the last three years and said farmers could not begin to supply the demand of sauerkraut factories which were shipping their product as far south as Texas and as far west as Washington.

Most of Outagamie-co. cabbage manufactured into sauerkraut was purchased by the New London factory which is planning to build a large addition the coming season. "Center Valley now surpasses Shiocton as a cabbage center," said Mr. Schwamner, "and the acreage the coming summer will be larger than ever." Farmers realized a good price for their crop last year and with the sauerkraut field opening up in connection with the regular market they count on still higher prices next fall.

April 27 Is Centenary Of Grant's Birth

April 27 will be the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Gen. U. S. Grant.

At the recent National Encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, held at Indianapolis, it was decided to observe the day in a proper manner.

A general committee of which President Harding is the leader, has been appointed, and is busily at work planning for the notable event. The committee in Wisconsin to take charge consists of Col. M. L. Snyder, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, and his assistant adjutant general, Col. J. A. Watrous.

This committee's plan is to have a patriotic General Grant program in all the public, private and parochial schools, and in the higher institutions of the state; to ask the pastors of all denominations in the state to bring before their audiences, the Sunday before the 27th, something of the character and the services of the great American general; to have the various soldier organizations, born of the Civil, Spanish-American and the World Wars unite in having on the eventful day general public meeting with suitable music, and two or three addresses by the best local talent in all the cities; to have a share of the last meeting, before April 27, in all Grand Army posts in the state, devoted to talks by members about the old leader, who led the American army and navy to success in the great Civil war.

SEEKS DATA ON FARM AND CITY COOPERATION

Facts about cooperation between cities, towns or villages and the farmer are sought by J. H. Kolb, of the department of agricultural economics of the college of agriculture, Madison, in a questionnaire submitted to the chamber of commerce.

The department is trying to ascertain successful plans in use to unite the interests of the city and country and wants to know if membership or representation in the chamber of commerce is practical.

Secretary Hugh G. Corbett intends to give Mr. Kolb a review of methods used in his former field at Champaign, Ill., where the chamber of commerce and Farm Bureau federation had offices in the same building, conducted a rest room and performed other functions which drew the appreciation of the farmer.

Sale is Postponed
The pure bred consignment sale of Guernsey bulls which William Breitrick was to have held on his farm in the town of Ellington Thursday, April 6, was postponed until a later date because of the condition of the roads which made it impossible for buyers to attend.

CHOOSE APPLETON FOR 'HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE ROAD'

Wisconsin Motorists Association is Urging Huge Advertising Campaign

Wisconsin motorists association has picked Appleton as one of the cities where a "house by the side of the road" ought to be maintained and has written a letter to Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the chamber of commerce asking his assistance in locating one here.

Need of more advertising in order to give this state its share of the tourists business is one of the points brought out strongly, and coincides with the idea of business men of the Fox River valley, who also believe this locality is not given enough publicity.

"Wisconsin is losing out in tourist business," the association letter says. "The city of Denver got $35,000,000 worth of business last year, Michigan $15,000,000 and Wisconsin only $10,000,000. There is need of an organization at a nominal membership fee to concentrate on advertising Wisconsin."

More than 50 cities have been picked for a "house by the side of the road." The house is a specially designed information booth erected and maintained by the association. An attendant is in charge throughout the tourist season to welcome the motoring visitor to the city and state.

The attendant will furnish authentic information as to current condition of roads and will point out scenic and historic points of interest. Maps showing detours, beauty spots and camping places will be supplied the autoist free of charge. The whole aim will be to make the visitors feel welcome and to make their trip over the highways safe and more pleasant.

Few Marriage Licenses
Cupid was not very active during the month of March, for only 11 marriage licenses were issued from the office of Herman J. Kamps, county clerk. Matrimonial business is picking up with the coming of spring however, for almost that number has been issued thus far in April.

NEW FREIGHT RATES ON COAL
Thousands of dollars may be saved coal consumers in Appleton by the readjustment of freight rates on soft and hard coal ordered by the Wisconsin railroad commission on Saturday. Whether there will be a saving depends, however, on where Appleton gets its coal. First impression created by the railroad commission's order is that Appleton will save from 30 to 35 cents on every ton of coal it burns but investigation soon showed that this will be so only if the coal is obtained from the docks in Green Bay.
The commission's order results in decreasing the freight charge on hard coal shipped from Green Bay from $1.48 1/2 to $1.15 a ton and increasing the rate on hard coal shipped from Sheboygan from $1.48 1/2 to $1.57 a ton. The fact is that most of the hard coal burned in Appleton comes from Sheboygan.

Coal dealers here no doubt will do what they can to give their customers the benefit of the reduction in coal prices which the new freight order has made possible. They can do this by obtaining their coal from Green Bay instead of from Sheboygan. The largest docks in Green Bay are owned by the same company which operates the Sheboygan docks and the Green Bay docks are large enough to supply this territory. There should be no reason for not giving Appleton people the advantages which they should enjoy because of their close proximity to a lake port. The readjustment in rates was made for that purpose.

FREIGHT IS MOVING BY TRUCK
Farmers in the grain and cattle states are evading the high railroad rates to some extent by hauling livestock and agricultural products to the principal markets in motor trucks. It is not unusual for them to transport their goods fifty and a hundred miles.
Not only are farmers using the motor truck. At most of the big manufacturing centers quite a large tonnage of merchandise freight is moving by automobile out to retail stores in rural districts.
To what extent truck competition is hurting the railroads it is impossible to say. There is much traffic that really should move by truck. Within a fifty-mile radius certain freight probably should be carried by trucks, as faster time can be made.

Motor trucks are competing with the railroads in a most aggressive manner for switching business in large manufacturing and commercial centers. A very large volume of traffic that used to be loaded in cars and switched from one plant to another, or from one part of town to another, now moves by motor truck.
Nothing could better illustrate the uneconomic character of existing freight rates than the efforts of shippers to avoid the excessive charges in rail transportation by looking to other agencies for the movement of freight. Unquestionably the rail situation, of which excessive freight rates are one phase, is responsible for the tremendous impetus given the Great-Lakes-to-Ocean Waterway by the country at large. The conclusion forces itself that the railroads in opposing general and substantial reductions in freight rates are standing in their own light, and that they are betraying a short-sightedness which marked many of their past policies that wrought so much public criticism and hostile legislation.
The simple truth is that merchandising and business cannot go on normally under present freight rates. The shippers will refuse to be held up and the tendency more and more will be to find in some manner a way to transport goods in ways other than by rail. Moreover, the effects of the present transportation conditions, if continued much longer, will be to create an irresistible demand for waterway improvements in the interior not only where they are feasible, but in many instances where they are not feasible. In opposing freight rate reductions the railroads are not looking into the future. They are generating public dissatisfaction, and that is an undelightful chicken that almost always comes home to roost.

FROM SHORT, TO SECOND, TO FIRST
The United States reminds Great Britain that Great Britain owes the United States interest on its debt, and that the same will be payable this autumn. Great Britain promises to pay the same promptly, and then notifies the allies that they are obligated to Great Britain for interest on loans, and, as Great Britain is to settle with the United States, the allies may be called on to settle with Great Britain.

This is a good illustration of the circulation of money in the payment of balances and accounts. It is the same in business. One merchant pays another or a manufacturer with what he receives from customers, and each recipient passes the money on to somebody else, only profits being retained.

The only question in the case of the international debt is where the original money is to come from to start the circle of liquidation. Of course the allies expect it to come from Germany, but thus far they have been unable to get blood from that turnip. The discharge of war debts rests theoretically on German reparations, that is among the European nations. Until a reparations program is adopted which will make it possible for Germany to meet these obligations it is doubtful if even the interest on war debts can be paid.

OUR EQUIPMENT FOR FIGHTING IGNORANCE
How strong is our first line of defense in the American war against ignorance. Joy Morgan gives the following startling figures on our teaching corps in the March Pennsylvania School Journal: The school teachers of America—over 600,000 of them, would form a line 300 miles long. This is our battle line. It has its weak sectors. If we can imagine ourselves walking 75 miles along this battle front, we should not have passed a single teacher over 21 years old, and tens of thousands under nineteen.

Remember the sharp military training just to kill. How are our recruits trained for the vastly more important work of teaching? You could pass 30,000 of them before coming to one with more than an eighth grade education. Walk on down that line till you have passed 150,000. You will find the first teacher with more than two years training after high school. You would be four-fifths of the way along the line of battle before you came to teachers thoroughly equipped for their battle, the success of which determines more decisively the future well-being of our country than almost any war ever fought.

Have we done our utmost to raise the teaching standard? We can get and keep good teachers if we want them enough. Have we done our bit?

Second Wind in Rehabilitation
The war was won at a certain cost of dead and wounded, but to these casualties must be added an incalculable amount of wear and tear on the minds and bodies of the men who took part, a lowering of their resistance to disease, and injuries passed over lightly or unnoticed at the time which shorten the productive life or lead to complete incapacity.
Rehabilitation is not, as was at first hopefully assumed, a matter of putting men on their feet again and sending them out to take care of themselves. Though the history of many cases would bear out this theory, the truth is that there are more incapacitated veterans now than there were at the end of the war, that the number is steadily increasing and that the peak has not by any means been reached. When hospitals are closed, other and larger hospitals must take their place. The public, which seemed for a while to want to forget not only the war but the soldiers who fought it, will have to get its second wind and contribute to this cause. It is one that cannot be neglected.—NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.)

High School Efficiency
Another tribute to the good quality of American high-school education is contained in the official report on the academic standing of Princeton freshmen. Based on the grades received by first-year students for the term ended in February, those who prepared at public high schools rank generally higher than students from private preparatory schools. And these conditions are true of a freshman class which "as a whole stands higher scholastically than any in recent years."
The ability of high-school graduates to meet the more exacting requirements of a college must be presumed to be the best possible test of the efficiency of high school training. That students prepared in the public schools could hold their own against and surpass graduates of private schools which make a special feature of preparing for college is positive and highly satisfactory evidence of the thoroughness of public-school education. Conditions at one university need not necessarily be accepted as general, but the testimony from Princeton confirms previous reports from other universities of the good standing of high-school graduates. It is a gratifying offset to the prevalent note of financial criticism.—NEW YORK WORLD (Dem.)

THE TOWN HALL CATASTROPHE
The Black Hole of Calcutta is still the classic instance of the deadly effect of foul air. The regulations daily enacted in schoolrooms where either teachers or their superiors are determined to admit no draft are not sufficiently dramatic to interest the public much.

"February 10," writes a correspondent, "the fire department of the town of Sea Cliff, Long Island, held a dance in the town hall. The hall was filled to capacity, literally jammed with men, women and not a few children. Altho the hall has large windows down each side and a door at back and front, not a breath of outside air was allowed to enter every window and door was kept closed. Imagine the air condition, especially with from 250 to 300 people dancing and others looking on. One of the firemen on the floor committee would not permit the opening of a window or door. 'We don't want to send all these people home with colds,' he said. Finally when the place became unendurable a young man lowered one window from the top, and the crowd flocked about to get a breath, but a number of old women cried warnings about the draft, and the floor committee men came and closed the window and forbade opening any more. Several members in our party went home with stuffed noses and dry, crusty throats and had dull headaches. Now, shouldn't it be compulsory to arrange for some sort of suitable ventilation when such public gatherings are held indoors? Shouldn't the health authorities supervise the matter of ventilation?"

That is a question.
The average benighted layman has two tremendous, overruling obsessions, first, that of starving when his food is withdrawn for a day or two, a fast founded on good, sound instinct, and second, that of suffering some illness as a result of a passing epidemic of fresh air blowing on his carcass, and this fear is not instinctive, but the result of faulty education, like the superstitious fear of thunder or snakes or the dark. When you undertake to regulate conditions which bear upon these obsessions, you are tackling a whale of a job. Yes, undoubtedly the health authorities should attend to the ventilation of places of public gatherings. So should the health authorities insist upon the isolation of persons with communicable respiratory diseases—but they don't do so because they haven't the courage to tackle the popular obsession. Now and then a health officer or health board does brace up, when popular apprehension seems to warrant it, and mildly "regulate" public gatherings in the attempt to "control" some respiratory infection which is unusually prevalent. But this is spasmodic. If the health authorities should step into the town hall and direct the lowering of a window or two, the Sewing circle would probably take steps to have a change of administration—and since health authorities generally owe their places to political favor, the public is likely to have its air raw, cooked or billed, as the master of the crowd or group may elect. Probably the Sea Cliff folks were fed up on fresh raw air and wanted to revel in an atmosphere calculated to stupefy or drug the guests into temporary forgetfulness of the fact that they lived on Long Island.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Have Your Face Massaged?
How often should I have my face massaged? And what is the best time for massaging the face with? I am a young man 18 years old.—(M. L.)
Answer:—About once a day. Have your father or brother or sister or mother or some friend massage it for you with a pair of eight ounce gloves for about 20 minutes every day, with special emphasis or tapotement. If every schoolboy were required to undergo this form of massage regularly, as he is required to suffer attacks of arithmetic and English imposition, it would be fine for the character of future manhood.

Strong Calves
Is there any exercise you can recommend besides running and walking to help develop the calves?—(Dorothy J.)
Answer:—The heel and toe drill, each night and morning, barefoot, toeing in, is good—you rise slowly as high as you can on toes, then slowly down, then slowly rise as high as you can on heels from 15 to 60 times. Toe dancing, skating, bicycle riding and tennis are good exercises for developing the calves.

Kindly publish in your next issue a good spring medicine.—(A. C.)

If impure blood is not the cause of pimples what remedy do you suggest? Is sarsaparilla a blood tonic?—(Anxious.)
Answer:—Spring does seem to poison the blood, doesn't it? In the springtime an editor pays for his fun. Graphite is said to be a good spring medicine. As for sarsaparilla, the way that happened to me, designated was, one balmy spring day the soda jerk set the sarsaparilla bottle far back on the side counter, and I went on to wait on a country customer, picked it up and mixed a dash of it with some tap water. The husbandman declared it drove all the umps out of his system. After that there was nothing to it but the fiction.

Daily Editorial Digest
(Title Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)
Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL AND THE CIVIL SERVICE
Characterization by Attorney General Harry Daugherty of the civil service as "an interference in the discharge of public duty" seems to have failed to strike any responsive commendation in the editorial columns of the nation's newspapers. Many of them admit there is a need for increased efficiency in government departments. But they seem a unit in agreement that abolition of the present system of appointment, and the return to the plan of political preferment, would be a step backward.

"The trouble with most individuals who decry the merit system," suggests the Cleveland PLAIN DEALER (Ind. Dem.), is that the only substitute they offer is worse than the system itself, even if one accepts their own estimate of it. Filling offices with spoilsmen, which in plain terms is the alternative proposition, does not appeal to friends of good government as a sound suggestion. The Syracuse N. Y. HERALD (Ind.), believes that "a political enemy of the Attorney General might have said with justice to his remarks that they were sheer nonsense. 'Not being his enemy the HERALD will not say that.' And the Norfolk, Va., VIRGINIAN-PILOT (Ind. Dem.), is convinced that Mr. Daugherty's "adverse criticism of civil service, and his advocacy of partisan appointments, are reactionary to a startling degree and run counter to present day tendencies."

Suggesting that it "hopes" the Attorney General was right in saying that in slamming the civil service he "did not represent the administration," the Boston POST (Ind. Dem.) declares "it should hardly be necessary to argue at this day the whole and beneficial effect of the civil service as applied to our national business," while the Pittsburgh, Pa., PROGRESS AND INDEPENDENCE (Ind.), dismissing the criticism by recalling that "lots of blunderbuss have been spoken and written about our civil service laws." The Baltimore SUN (Ind. Dem.), admitting that "if the head of a government department who was both perfectly honest and perfectly efficient were allowed to select his subordinates without hindrance," he might even, "as Mr. Daugherty suggests, get along with two-thirds of the number of employees he now employs." The SUN points out that this is impossible and declares:—"What is needed is not the repeal of the Civil Service law but a more rigid enforcement of it." To which the Baltimore NEWS (Ind.), adds that Civil Service "is not perfection by a long shot, but, on the whole, it secures better and cheaper service than anything else which we have tried."

The competency of political appointments is questioned by the Springfield, O., NEWS (Dem.), which believes they are named "for what they can do for the party and not for the nation," and it declares that "lots of times they are utterly unqualified for holding public office. Civil service must remain and it ought to be strengthened instead of discouraged." This sentiment is endorsed by the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR (Ind.), which, admitting that "there is gross and ineffectual inefficiency in our civil service," insists, "that the remedy cannot be found where he believes it exists. The search should be for something better, not for something worse than the methods now endured," it suggests.

That Attorney General Daugherty will find support in Connecticut for his opinions is admitted by the Hartford TIMES (Dem.), which argues that "Connecticut never has had real civil service." It adds that "the people are far better for the purpose of the politicians than the civil service, and since anything that hinders the politicians also hinders the government, it is logical that civil service should be condemned as an outrage upon 110,000 people." And the Providence, R. I., TRIBUNE, saying that there "is something refreshing about Mr. Daugherty's sincerity," believes that "the majority of the American people would hardly balk at using a compromise that if the party leaders was again the order of the day Mr. Daugherty or any other able member of the present cabinet could cut down the number of Federal employees two-thirds." In the opinion of the Springfield Mass., REPUBLICAN (Ind.), "Mr. Daugherty is nothing but an interesting survival from a remote age, like the plesiosaurus recently reported to be still alive in 'Balogay.'"

But the Philadelphia RECORD (Ind. Dem.), is not convinced, that even if he had his way, the attorney general would be able to bring about wholesale dismissals of incompetents. "He thinks he would," it says, "but he is mistaken. Every man whom he thinks he would remove would get his political backers to go to Mr. Daugherty and insist that their friend be retained." To which the Brooklyn DAILY (Ind. Dem.) adds that "Frankness demands the acknowledgment that a considerable number of department heads regard the present civil service system as basically an encouragement to 'sloping,' but is convinced that 'the theory of Civil Service has taken such a grip on the popular fancy that neither Mr. Daugherty nor any other reactionary has any reasonable hope of abolishing it.'" they must stand until someone evolves something better." In agreeing to this the Waterbury, Conn., REPUBLICAN (Rep.), suggests that the remedy to the evils complained of by the attorney general "lies in such improvement to the system as will make promotion more easy and financial recognition of efficient service without promotion possible." While the Winston Salem, N. C., JOURNAL (Dem.), is convinced that "the civil service system must be improved but not scrapped for the vicious spoils system."

Far Southern opinion is voiced by the New Orleans ITEM (Ind.), which says:—"Such a 'want' is natural to a man who, however capable a lawyer, has specialized in extremely practical politics in a state where such politics has been brought to the ultimate in its application."

SECRET OF RUSSIA'S MILITARY STRENGTH
Paris.—Discussing the reasons why Russia's military strength is so great a staff writer in Le Radical, says: "There is only one country in the world where the militarism of the barracks is really considered an honor and has warm partisans and enthusiastic adherents, and that is Russia."

"In France, military service is considered a most sacred duty, but also as the hardest imposition. The want of enthusiasm which the French show especially since the war to give their sons a military career is a sign of this. The prestige of the uniform, the taste for expeditions or bellicose adventures no longer flourishes in circles where formerly it was the custom and considered good taste to provide recruits to be trained as officers."

"It is not as might be believed a new pacifist idea, but simply the ardent desire among the young men of France to consecrate their activity, their intelligence and their knowledge to work which is no less necessary for the prosperity of their country; industry, commerce, agriculture in a wide sense, colonization, art, the study of science and its application to modern life. All the same, this state of mind which was noticeable even before 1914, does not mean that the country would hesitate to rise like one man if a brutal and arrogant enemy again were to threaten its integrity and its independence."

"That is the kind of militarists that we are." In Germany there is undoubtedly still a strong military party. The militarist virus is still present in the blood of many of the people. All the same a great number of them have been glad to see military service disappear.

"In Russia it is quite different. It is a most extraordinary paradox. The communist government has restored to a place of honor the ardent desire to become a soldier and to live in barracks. Under the Czar, the moujiks, the workmen, tradesmen preferred their fields, their factories or their offices, even with modest salaries, to start service in the army. To-day there is no necessity for Trotsky's recruiting agents to use the least pressure. They are overrun with demands from men between the ages of 19 and 40 who want their names to be inserted in the conscription registers and have no other ambition than to figure among the effectives of the Red Army."

Secret Of German Guns

Though the main secret of the German guns which bombarded Paris was soon known to artillerists, the gun and its story long remained a mystery to the public, says a writer in the LONDON DAILY MAIL. Commander Kinzel, of the German Navy, who took part in the design, construction and test of the guns, has now made public an account of his experiences with it.
The gun, he says, was a naval gun in that it was invented and served by naval personnel. It was designed to fire seventy-five miles.
For a long time the designers were at a loss, but ultimately they seem to have overcome all ballistic difficulties and the gun was built. The charge ordinarily one-third of the weight of the projectile, was twice as heavy. The length of the chamber was monstrous. At an angle of forty-five degrees the barrel towered over houses, trees, and roofs. It needed some courage to shoot with a thing like "a stick of gigantic asparagus." But the material stood it.
Commander Kinzel gives an interesting account of the testing; no artillery trial ground, he says, was large enough. In conjunction with the ministry of marine the gun was reached to fire the gun from land at about the approximate distance from the sea the shell was expected to carry. Batters on the shore were warned, the ground divided into observation areas, and two airplanes were sent out to see to it that it would explode at 110 kilometers (68 miles) from the gun.
At 3:15 one afternoon the airplanes were warned by wireless, "Attention shell fire." Three minutes was the time estimated for the shell to reach the marked area. Then came a ring on the telephone at the central station; "Reports of explosion heard. It was found on inquiry that the shell had fallen at 55 kilometers (59 miles) from the gun, and 1,400 yards inland. It had hit a cowshed but there were no casualties.
The pieces were collected and examined. They showed that the shell had been to an altitude of 40 kilometers. The distance, however, was short of that for which the gun was designed, and there followed new consultations, calculations and designs. Finally, a few weeks later they were in position to bombard Paris.
Two guns were made and a third put in hand. Commander Kinzel gives some details of the two when they had been brought into position in a wood behind Laon in March, 1918. The nearest enemy lines were 19 kilometers (7 1/2 miles) away. Paris was 128 kilometers (80 miles) distant. The crews were naval gunners. Special dugouts had to be made for the cartridges and shells and special smoke apparatus for concealment. The forest, the shells, he said, looked modest side by side with the cartridges, which were three and four times as long as the shell and the length of two grown men. That the gun could not lay Paris in ruins was plain, this was a moral gun. On March 23, at 7:15 a. m. they opened fire, and then continued every quarter of an hour, later speeding the rounds. At 2 o'clock the sun came through, and they ceased for the day, so as not to give away the position. They fired for three days before they got the first news of where the shells had fallen. Within thirty hours French artillery had located and shelled them, but they continued to fire. Neither gun was hit. The guns, however, had a life of less than one hundred shots before the ignition chamber was so damaged that further firing was impossible. The old barrel was returned to the factory, a new one being ready.

Q. In the reports of Wall Street brokerage firms going to the wall, the announcement is made that the probable cause was "bucketing orders." What does this mean? O. E. K.
A. The word "bucketing" is derived from "bucket shops." Bucket shops are run by irresponsible brokers, not members of any stock exchange, and do a marginal business upon one dollar a share and upwards. As a matter of fact, in the case of a bucket shop, the stock itself is usually not purchased or sold for the customer. When an order has gone through the machinery of the bucket shop and been executed by the same, theoretically accepted, it has been "bucketed." No actual purchase or sale takes place, the broker must pay losses if the customer has guessed the right way, and vice versa if the opposite. "Bucketed" is used to denote the handling by a legitimate stock exchange broker of his customer's accounts on bucket shop methods.
Q. Are fish scales of any use commercially? R. J.
A. Great quantities of fish scales are used in the making artificial pearls.
Q. What does the slang term "a quarter horse" mean? P. R. K.
A. A "quarter horse" is a term applied to an individual who can make spectacular records but cannot be relied upon for a steady pace in his undertakings. The term was originally used on the race course, meaning a horse in a race who was capable of terrific speed for a short distance such as one-quarter of a mile and who ended the other three-quarters of the mile at greatly reduced speed.
Q. When was Washington's birthday first celebrated? W. W. B.
A. The first recorded celebration of Washington's birthday occurred in Richmond, Va., in 1782. It was celebrated there and in other places, until 1783 it was generally adopted.
Q. Why is the new wireless called radiograph? J. V. N.
A. The word radiograph was coined because radio is an abbreviation for radiation and the radiograph is the instrument for radiating electric energy through the air.
Q. Is there a Mohammedan church in the United States? R. C.
A. A Moslem Mosque has been built in Highland Park, Michigan. The first magazine for Islam, the "Moslem Sun," is published there, and the first Moslem missionary to America, Mufti Muhammad Sadiq has his headquarters there.
Q. Who invented the Jew's harp and when? J. L. S.
A. The origin of this instrument is not known. The Jew's harp is an old invention mentioned by Platorius in his Organographia (1619) under the name cembalum.
Q. How much weight 1,000,000 $10 bills weigh? J. R. H.
A. Paper money weighs the same regardless of denomination. One million paper bills weigh 3,000 pounds.
Q. Is there such a thing as a singing mouse? C. G.
A. The Bureau of Biological Survey says that some house mice have a peculiar inflection of the vocal cord that causes them to make a kind of singing note. The Japanese are able to do this artificially and therefore a great number of these singing mice are found in Japan.
Q. How much does Germany owe for the maintenance of the Army of Occupation? P. D. P.
A. The amount of the claim of the United States for cost of the army in Germany since November 11, 1918, is $66,374,000 gold marks.

Wed at Hortonville

Miss Gertrude E. Baars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark of Hortonville, and Herbert K. Luedke of Appleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Luedke of Milwaukee, were married at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. G. A. Boettcher performed the ceremony.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

STATE ISSUES ITS OWN RAILROAD MAP

Accurate Publication is Accomplished by Engineers
—Copies Arrive Here

Copies of Wisconsin's new railroad map, prepared and published officially by the state, have been received in Appleton. The map is declared to be the most perfect and the best state map ever published.

Approximately $20,000 was expended by the state in preparation of the map, but the plates now are state owned and additional copies may be issued any time. Former map plates were in the hands of private firms and could not be purchased. The legislature therefore authorized an appropriation and the engineering department devoted much painstaking effort to designing of a complete and accurate map. Eighteen thousand mounted maps and four-thousand paper ones were printed.

The map, which is 34 X 54 inches, is pale green on white background, seven colors being used to designate the railroads, etc. The index at the bottom refers to the 12 large railroads and 21 railroads of less than 50 miles of track, 21 interurban lines, 50 state institutions, 9 state parks, and 6 Indian reservations in the state. The counties are listed alphabetically, giving the square miles, population, county seat and the distances from Madison and Milwaukee. The postoffices are also listed and the population of all incorporated cities and villages at the time the 1920 census was taken.

Under the law as amended in 1921, each member of the legislature is entitled to 50 of the maps for free distribution, while the state superintendent of public property, through the county superintendent, sends a map to each school, college and library. All state officials and state employees are also entitled to a map and the superintendent of public property is authorized to sell the surplus at $1 per map.

The official comments the manner in which Secretary Hugh G. Corbett reviewed the chamber's accomplishment for the year.

Folks At Home May Hear Political Chatter From Cities In Fall Campaign

Listening to campaign speeches from Wisconsin, Washington and in fact from all parts of the United States by radio probably will be the pastime of people of this locality during the political battles next fall.

Down in Washington senators and representatives already are swamping the navy department for permission to plead their cause with the folks back home in this way.

With the radio fed spreading, many people probably will have wireless telephone sets installed in their homes by fall and can sit in their parlors and be entertained for the evenings with the chatter and fireworks of the struggle for ballots.

There also is talk about the government broadcasting weather reports by wireless daily, so those who have instruments need not wait for the published forecasts.

Already Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Senator New, Miss Alice Robertson, Representative Cable, Ohio; Fitzgerald, Ohio and Brennan, Michigan, have used the government radio facilities in Washington to speak directly to their districts.

By popularizing use of the radio, however, members of congress may be walking into a trap set for them by Congressman Brennan of Detroit.

Brennan, called the "baby of the house," is out to "make congress cut out the bunk" by broadcasting by radio all speeches made in the house and senate.

NEIGHBORS ARE AMAZED AT HER IMPROVEMENT

Many Friends of St. Paul Woman Are Now Taking Tanlac As Result of Wonderful Change in Her Condition.

"For the first time in ten years I can eat anything I want and not have indigestion afterwards. I feel just like a different person since Tanlac built me up," said Mrs. Ida B. DeMar, 529 St. Peter St., St. Paul, Minn.

"I was a confirmed dyspeptic and also had acute attacks of indigestion and sometimes they were so violent I would have to stay in bed for two or three days. I had the worst sort of nervous headaches, too, my liver was torpid and I was always taking laxatives."

"It is the most wonderful thing I have ever heard of in my life, but it is true, I haven't had an attack of indigestion since I started taking Tanlac. I know that at least fifteen or twenty people have started taking Tanlac on account of the wonderful change they have seen it make in me." Tanlac is sold in Appleton by Veigt Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR PASSION WEEK

Story of Passion Will be Told in Evening Meetings in Methodist Church

Passion week services will be held at the Methodist church every evening during this week beginning at 7:30 Monday evening and ending Friday. Appropriate texts have been chosen by Rev. J. A. Holmes for the services and special music has been planned for choir and soloists.

On Monday morning, Rev. Holmes spoke in Lawrence Memorial chapel to the students urging them to take part in the Passion week services in their own churches. He emphasized the need for preparation for the joyous feast of the church on Easter Sunday. "My father, if this cup cannot pass away accept I drink it. Thy will be done" is the topic for Monday evening. On Tuesday, Rev. Holmes will speak on the general subject "For saken" with "Then all the disciples left him and fled" as the text. "A Troubled Conscience" is the topic for Wednesday with "But Peter followed him afar off" as the text. "The Cross Bearer" is the topic for Thursday night taken from the text. "And as they came out, they found a man of Cyrene, Simon by name; him they compelled to bear the cross." The final service on Friday evening will be on the crucifixion taken from the text: "And when they came unto the place which is called the skull, there they crucified Him."

THILMANY MEN RETURN TO WORK

Employees of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., at Kaukauna who left their work a week ago when a reduction in wages became effective returned to the plant Monday morning and the entire plant is in operation again. Employees of the Gilbert Paper Co. at Menasha also have returned to work. It is understood the wage scale for common labor was returned to 35 cents an hour at that mill.

A meeting of Lakeview Paper Co. workers who are idle was held on Monday to discuss their plans. Island Paper Co. Employees at Menasha still are idle. The Neenah Paper Co. resumed operations early last week when all the men returned to work.

DEPERE POSTAL WORKERS BOWL HERE THIS EVENING

Appleton Postoffice association has arranged to entertain DePerer postoffice bowlers at a lunch and social in the federal building Monday evening following the Appleton-DePerer bowling match which is to be staged at Olympian alleys.

Local postoffice clerks and carriers are playing a little game of politics to make sure the Appleton boys will avenge their defeat in the match at DePerer recently. They are placing all their wagers on the visitors and expect these "goat getting" tactics to put enough "pep" into the local five to make them score a victory.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Child's Hair With

If you want to keep your child's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Multisided coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair. Simply put two or three teaspoonfuls of Multisided in a cup or glass with a little warm water, then moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Multisided coconut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Multisided.

MAIL EASTER GREETING CARDS NOW, KELLER SAYS

"Do not wait until Friday or Saturday to mail Easter greeting cards," says Gustave Keller, postmaster.

Usually the mailing is put off until the last minute and the congestion means delay such that greetings do not reach the addressee until after Easter. The postoffice will keep the cards moving but wants the cooperation of the public to avoid a last-minute overloading of the mails.

Mr. Keller also stresses his previous warning against mailing tinselled postcards openly. These must be enclosed in sealed envelopes and a 2-cent stamp affixed, otherwise they will be held as unmailable.

LEGION AND RED CROSS ORGANIZING FOR SOLDIER COUNT

Census Will Determine if Veterans are Getting What is Due Them

Outagamie County Red Cross Chapter and Oney Johnston post, American legion are organizing their forces for the county census of ex-service men to be taken within the next few weeks. The census is a part of a service campaign being carried on by the American Legion Department of Wisconsin.

Miss Ann Helm, executive secretary of Outagamie County Red Cross chapter, and L. Hugo Keller, commander of Oney Johnston post, will conduct the campaign in Outagamie county. Ex-service men in all sections of the county will be appointed to take charge of the campaign in their communities. Miss Helm and Mr. Keller will make a trip through the county in a few days to select workers and assign territory.

Every veteran of the World War in Outagamie county will be asked to sign a questionnaire on which they will give their name, address, date of enlistment, outfit with which they served, whether married or single, dependents, nature of wounds if any, physical disability resulting from service, vocational handicap, compensation, government insurance, pre-war vocation and information about comrades needing aid.

The aims of the campaign are to seek out each veteran of the World War in Wisconsin, determine his needs and find if he has availed himself of his every right as a veteran; to gather evidence that will indicate positively to congress and the country what options veterans will choose under the American legion five-fold adjusted compensation bill, to make plain to all citizens, including veterans, that the legion means service; to explain to veterans what the legion is trying to do for them and to show them the advantage of membership in the legion for themselves, and in the auxiliary for their mothers, wives, sisters and daughters.

We Will Give You Real Command of English

Your use of English proclaims you to the world. What you say tells what you are. Your language largely determines your place among successful men.

The greater your vocabulary, the greater your power of expression and influence upon your fellowmen. Commence now—let Greenville Kleiser teach you through his Mail Course in Practical English, how to

Enlarge Your Stock of Words—

Use the Right Word in the Right Place—

Write Tactful, Forceful Letters; Distinctive Advertisements, Stories, Sermons, Essays, Etc.

Win Promotion and More Pay.

Become an Engaging Conversationalist—

Be a Man of Culture, Power, and Influence in your Community.

It will take only some of your spare moments at home; no repellent grammar study; each lesson as clear as daylight, and inspiring to the highest degree. Most of your thinking is done in words. It is impossible to think in words which you do not possess. Your thought must suffer for the words you lack. A limited vocabulary means limited thought, limited authority, and limited power.

The idea, plan, or proposal which COMPELS attention is expressed in precise, convincing language—language persuasive, forceful, and gleaming with just the suggestion you're trying to "drive home."

The average man of today can add largely to his efficiency, influence, and income if he will give a few minutes each day to Greenville Kleiser's fascinating Mail Course in Practical English.

BOOTH TARKINGTON, Distinguished Novelist: "Your course is almost painfully needed by many professional writers and speakers. A student who intelligently follows your course will know what he is talking about when he talks or when he writes. His audience will certainly know, because he will talk well, no matter what his subject."

IRVIN S. COBB, War Correspondent, Novelist, Lecturer: "Any man who knows English-speaking people to a better knowledge of practical English deserves praise and has mine." JOHN BURROUGHS, famous Naturalist and Writer: "I see valuable and helpful hints in these lessons. Any young man or woman who has an undeveloped literary talent ought to profit greatly by this Course."

ROAD BOOSTERS OF MICHIGAN TO BE HERE IN JULY

Itinerary of Michigan Pike Association is to Include Appleton

Appleton probably will be among the cities which will be hosts to the road boosters forming the Michigan Pike association when a tour is conducted around Lake Michigan next July. Highway No. 15, passing through this city, will be followed from Chicago to the Copper country.

Announcement of the tour has been made by the association but no word has been received here concerning the plans. The chamber of commerce is expected to receive a communication any day describing the trip.

START FROM DETROIT

It is learned from association officials that the tour totals 1,729.2 miles and will consume thirteen and one-half days, starting from Detroit on July 7 and finishing there on July 20. Capt. W. S. Gilbreath, president of the M. P. A. and manager of the Detroit Automobile club, announces that during the thirteen and one-half days the association will conduct seventy-seven cities roads' meetings in as many cities along the route.

The itinerary of the tour is Detroit to Chicago, Milwaukee, Appleton, Green Bay, Calumet, Muskegon, Grand Rapids, and Detroit. On reaching Petoskey on the return trip down the eastern shore of Lake Michigan the tour will be combined with the tour of the West Michigan Pike association, from that point to Grand Rapids.

CHICAGOANS TO JOIN

William H. Loutit, president of the West Michigan Pike association, has announced that his organization contemplates a tour from Chicago to Petoskey over the W. M. P. link of the Dixie highway July 14-16, and amalgamating his tour with Capt. Gilbreath's organization for the return trip to Grand Rapids where the "pikers" will disband on July 19.

The party will number about two hundred tourists and about thirty to forty cars and trucks. In coming into Wisconsin, the tourists will go over the recently extended Sheridan Road, passing through Milwaukee and going north to Green Bay. From Green Bay highway 15, which is the recently named Sheridan Road artery will take the tourists to Calumet, Houghton, Lake Linden and Houghton, the terminus of the route.

According to present plans, a delegation of Sheridan Road boosters will accompany the visitors north and join in the good roads' meeting which will be held from time to time along the route.

ROUTE BECOMING FAMOUS

The extension of the Sheridan Road Improvement association's activity to the copper country is being favorably commented upon in the West. Besides giving tourists an opportunity to see the wonderful beauty spots of Wisconsin, it will also permit of a visit to the copper country, and to go down in the mines and inspect the smelters.

It is pointed out by Sheridan Road enthusiasts that the highway now offers more in the way of tourist allurements, than any similar highway in the United States.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN AIRPLANES CRASH

By United Press Leased Wire
Paris—Pilot Duke of the British express plane which crashed in midair with a Goliath passenger plane over Theullev, died in a hospital here Saturday, the seventh victim of the most terrible accident in the history of European aviation.

The French airplane left Le Bourget in the environs of Paris, at noon for London.

The British airplane, which left Croydon, in the London area Friday morning, carried mail and was manned only by a pilot.

The British machine piloted by Aviator Duke, had only been in use a short time. It belonged to a new company operating a Paris-London service. The accident occurred during the descent, the pilots seeing each other too late to avoid a collision.

The London-Paris air service was started in 1919 as an outgrowth of the aerial activities of the war. The service proved popular and in a few months there were four lines in operation.

FOREST FIRES NO MENACE TO COUNTY

State Figures Show Only Two in Year With Loss Estimated at About $600

Outagamie co. occupies an inconspicuous position on the list of northern Wisconsin counties which were hit by forest fires during the year 1921, according to figures compiled by L. C. Harrington, division of forestry and parks of the conservation commission.

Total losses in the state from 137 fires over an acreage of 33,044 amounted to $36,412, but this county fortunately emerged with two minor fires to its credit on 300 acres of land, with a property loss estimated at $600.

Very little wooded land remains in this county in such large areas as to make forest fires possible or serious if they did start. It is believed that the cases referred to were fires in peat bogs, as one starts occasionally and burns for days or weeks without any consequence except the smoke annoyance.

ESTIMATED LOSS

Estimates of the loss were made in but 51 per cent of the fires reported in the state during 1921.

These estimates show that $4,736 damage was done to buildings and other property, while timber land, marsh land and young timber was damaged to the extent of $31,677, a total of $36,413.

In 1920 a total of 250 fires occurred which burned over 404,059 acres with a property loss of $225,692.

Localities visited by fires were not nearly as hard hit in 1921. Towns paid bills of $5,722.17 for fire fighting and 1,037 men were called into service as fire fighters. In the preceding season the towns paid $14,546 and 5,291 men were called out for service. Land-clearing operations caused 29 of the fires, the origin of which has been traced. Campers and hunters come next in the list with 13 known fires to their account, and railroads are third with 8. The cause of 75 of the fires is unknown.

In 1921, for upkeep of buildings on the state lands and roads, the state spent $16,036.93, against $20,456.37 in 1920. For fire protection and patrol on lands other than state lands, the state in-

OIL-RICH FARMER KEEPS UP CHORES

Oscar Chesson Becomes Millionaire Overnight But Sticks to Farm

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Orange, Tex.—"Humble No. 5 Chesson."

That's not wireless code—it's the official name of the biggest gusher in the world south—a gusher that's spouting forth 25,000 to 30,000 barrels of oil—liquid gold—every day.

But it's not half as unusual as the gusher's owner, Oscar Chesson. It was on Chesson's farm, near here, that the gusher took a notion to gush.

And Chesson became a millionaire overnight!

And he's peeved about it!

"The drilled oil liked to have 1921 spent $12,818.23, and the federal government $3,532.87, as compared to $8,748.67 by the state in 1920, and $2,813.67 by the federal government.

ruined my 'later' crop," Chesson grumbles. "I had to hurry and get the 'taters' turned from there."

Chesson turned down an offer of $500,000 for royalties alone on his 46-acre tract. That's the highest price ever offered in Texas for royalties.

Chesson shrugged his shoulders, returned to his two-room hut on the edge of the oil fields and set about nursing sick pigs.

And every day the new "oil king" drives a fever full of farm produce to town and canvasses all the stores (till the load's sold).

Since Chesson's gusher started spouting the marshes around Orange are filled with oil. The Cow bayou looks like a solid river of oil.

Oil experts believe there's a vast oil pool—possibly the biggest in the country—under Chesson's farm.

When the gusher first began to spout, its roar could be heard two miles, like the sound of a giant waterfall. It sent a column of oil 300 feet in the air.

Oil men say the gusher will keep on producing from 25,000 to 30,000 barrels of oil daily for an indefinite period.

PASSOVER FEAST STARTS APRIL 12

Appleton Jews, together with Jewish people all over the world, will celebrate the Feast of Unleavened Bread, otherwise known as Passover, beginning on April 12, for a period of seven or eight days, according to their interpretation of the Biblical injunction in Exodus 23:14.

During the Passover week all Jewish families abstain from eating leaven bread in any form and in its stead use the matzo, concluding the festival on April 19.

The first and last days are days of holy convocation. That is, services are held on these days. The evening of the first day of Passover is particularly important.

This evening is known in Jewish circles as "Seder Night." Its intent is to unite members of a household about the festive board and there read together the ritual compiled for the occasion and known as the "Haggadah." This liturgical composition recites the chief events of the Exodus of the Children of Israel from Egypt and with many a quaint song and story revives memories of hardship in ancient days from which the people of Israel were delivered by a strong hand and an outstretched hand.

PLATT BECOMES MANAGER OF N-P LEAGUE IN STATE

Madison, Wis. — Chester C. Platt, Madison, Saturday became state manager of the Wisconsin Department of the Nonpartisan League. He succeeds Emil Plasden, who resigned to enter private business. Plasden has been manager of the Wisconsin department since early in 1920.

Platt has been editor of the Wisconsin Nonpartisan League Leader, official league paper, since 1920 when he came to Madison.

Platt issued a statement today on assuming the office, declaring the Nonpartisan League was still "in the ring" and will take an important part in the 1922 election campaigns.

Girls Edit Creditable Paper At Lincoln School

Lincoln School Magazine Compares Favorably With High School Papers

Four girls attending Lincoln school are destined to become writers if talent they are exhibiting in two school publications is any indication of their future tendencies.

These girls are Margaret Joslyn, Elizabeth Post, Elizabeth Mead and Harriet Molineux, who are editors of "The Lincoln Trumpet" and "The Lincoln Tattler." They began issuing the school papers of their own accord and now the bright, newsy organs have become a definite part of the school life.

Business acumen of these embryo publishers also has shown itself, for the papers are sold at 2 cents a copy and each publication has a circulation of approximately 60 to 75 copies. The income pays for the paper and mimeograph stencils used in the printing. Two subscribers whose names add dignity to the papers are C. J. Anderson, assistant state superintendent of schools, and W. J. Osburn, supervisor of educational measurement, both of Madison.

Activities of the Lincoln school are described fully and in detail in the various articles. There is an appeal all the way through the pages for increased interest in school work and greater enthusiasm for the activities. The paper is wielding its influence in school matters as the press moulds public opinion. Editorial comment dealing with better sportsmanship and suggesting good books for reading by pupils are examples.

A place in the ranks of feature writers might be given these girl editors, for they have demonstrated their ability along that line. An interview in the March 23 issue of The Trumpet with Miss Bohlman on "Naughty Children" illustrates this.

It is surprising the number of jokes the reporters are able to pick up around the classrooms. More than a page is devoted to humor that will stand the laugh test and some clever word advertisements also have come from the young pens.

All of the work is done by the girls themselves. They wanted to do something practical and were encouraged by the teachers and Principal Ben F.

Rahm to issue the papers. Most of the ideas and articles are original with the editors and written in their own style. Incidentally the writers show ability to present their stories in a fascinating way and are accurate in their grammar and expression. A state educational official said the papers would compare favorably with many high school publications.

News copy is written in longhand and then recopied by a stenographer on a mimeograph stencil. The pupils then operate the copying machine to turn out the required number of copies fasten the pages with staples and sell the paper to their patrons.

GREGORY AGAIN ELECTED HEAD OF INTERLAKE CLUB

Interesting Program at Semi-Annual Banquet of Athletic Association

R. L. Gregory was reelected president of the Athletic association of the employees of Interlake Pulp & Paper Co., for the coming year at the semi-annual banquet of the association Saturday night in the Sherman house. Mr. Gregory, Ray Coon, R. Kosike, A. G. Kessler and Andrew Ries were elected as the board of directors.

Seventy-five men attended the semi-annual social affair. Entertainers from Lawrence college furnished music while the banquet was being served. Following the banquet an impromptu program was given with R. L. Gregory presiding. Members of the association were called upon for talks. W. H. Penhallegon of the Post-Crescent told of the plans already worked out for the proposed Outagamie County Baseball league. By a unanimous vote the men at the banquet endorsed the plans and agreed to enter the Interlake team in the champion race. The program ended with community singing led by the college entertainers.

BIG THREE USES ATHLETIC BROOM

Athletes Attending School on "Loans" Barred From College Games

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—Big brooms are working on spring house cleaning around the "big three."

Princeton started it and Yale and Harvard will have to follow it for the simple reason that Princeton puts it up to them to do the same thing.

Eighteen athletes at Princeton, by a ruling of the athletic committee have been declared ineligible to compete in varsity sport.

Tom McNamara, captain of the base ball team and a sub end on last year's foot ball eleven, is the only one whose name has been made public.

The committee wished it known emphatically Monday that it had not said to Yale and Harvard—"we have done our part now it's up to you to clean up."

The committee also insists that the stigma of professionalism does not fall upon any of the ineligible men

FOUR CLUBS WILL BE BATTLING FOR PENNANT IN A. L.

Class so Evenly Distributed that Management May Determine Winner

New York — New York ought to win the American league pennant but there are three good reasons why the Yanks have no cinch ahead of them—St. Louis, Cleveland and Washington.

Such a smart baseball man as Johnny Evers refuses to pick a winner. "It's going to be a heartbreaking race. Even the Boston Red Sox have a chance," Evers says.

The class of the league is so evenly distributed between four clubs that banding may be the biggest factor in the race and in this respect the Yanks by no means can be considered the favorite.

The Yanks won the pennant last year and they have improved the club with the mobilization of the best pitching staff in the league. The St. Louis Browns are stronger only by one rookie pitcher. The Cleveland Indians have a much better infield but their old pitching trouble is not corrected much. Washington is improved all around but lacks pitchers.

Admitting that one guess is as good as another, the following is submitted to be either buried or hoisted on the pole next October.

New York first; St. Louis second; Cleveland third; Washington fourth; Boston fifth; Detroit sixth; Philadelphia seventh and Chicago eighth.

and that their honor is in no way besmirched.

While it was not admitted officially, it is generally regarded that the eighteen are the first victims of the "loan system" which works along this line.

Mr. So and So, a wealthy alumnus, sees a great high school or prep school star at such and such place. He goes to him with a pat on the back and asks him where he is going to matriculate. The boys says he is going to work.

He has no money to go to college. The kind benefactor then tells him to set aside his worries, to take the examinations at the alma mater and that his tuition will be paid and that he will be allowed so much spending money. All the money that is put out on him can be paid back when he makes good in the big outside world. There are few records of those loans being called or paid back.

BOOZE IS BIG FACTOR IN FLAG RACE IN MAJORS

Club Managers Have All Kinds of Trouble Keeping Men in Line

By Henry L. Farrell
By United Press Leased Wire
New York—In a dry country it sounds absurd to figure booze as a factor in the major league pennant races. Despite Mr. Volstead and the law there is enough bootleg around, however, to trouble the managers of practically every club on the big time.

The pennant chances of four of the strongest teams in the majors depends in a large part this season on how the players conduct themselves off the field.

Branch Rickey, who has lost two "thirsty" players already, is frank enough to admit that the entire chances of the St. Louis Cardinals rest on the drinking factor.

"John Barleycore is the most dangerous factor the Cardinals have as a pennant contender in the National league race," Branch Rickey said recently.

The Giants will be up against the same things, perhaps in a less degree, and the Pirates, who threw away the pennant in 1921 with wild ways, will have to reform this year or get the same result.

One of McGraw's best pitchers, who starred in the world's series, had to have one of the coaches for a constant guardian all last season and at that he got away several times.

HERE IS THE FOOL STUNT
One of the biggest stars in baseball last fall "threw down" his club in the hottest part of a desperate pennant race. He tried to open a quart of Scotch by pounding the bottom of the bottle on the wall. The neck cracked and he nearly cut out the palm of his hand. He was in and out for the rest of the season and was of little value to his team.

One of the greatest left-handers in the game almost passed out of the big leagues in one season because he couldn't get away from his booze. His team depended on him for another pennant and he flopped. This season he seems to have settled.

The Cleveland Indians and the Cincinnati Reds have had their "booze" troubles. Every pennant winner has it more than other clubs because the world's series money enables the players to pay $12 or $15 a quart without cutting into their envelope.

Detroit—Panama Joe Gans will attempt to sooth his pride here tonight when he meets the Jamaica Kid, the kid trounced Gans, holder of the Tex Rickard middleweight championship belt, at Norfolk, Va. two years ago and only the bell saved him.

UNCLE SAM PAYS FEW MILLION AT TIME ON WAR DEBT

Vast Debt Owed to Nephews and Nieces Is Shrinking
Month by Month

Washington. — Uncle Sam, recovering from his orgy of war spending, is paying off his war debt to the American people.

More than twenty-six billion dollars borrowed by the old man from his nieces and nephews to fight the war and to help his allies is being paid off at a rate which has just reached $180,000,000 a month. At the present rate of progress the next generation will be relieved of the vexatious tax burdens that follow all warfare.

At the end of 1921 the gross public debt of the United States was but $23,438,984,351. To offset this, Uncle Sam had a cash balance in the treasury of $487,767,529, leaving him in the hole almost $23,000,000,000 net. Just a year ago the war debt was practically $24,000,000,000, and—where was half a billion in the treasury. At its peak the war debt, or more correctly the gross total debt, was $26,596,701,648.

BACK TO PEOPLE

All of this money was taken from the American people in return for liberty bonds, victory notes and other securities. It will go back to the people over a long period of years.

Nearly a billion dollars of the Victory Loan, represented in Victory notes, has been paid off in the past two years. In all the government sold four and a half billion dollars worth of these notes after hostilities ceased. There were outstanding at the end of 1921, slightly over three and a half billion dollars worth were brought in by the treasury at a profit and destroyed through sinking fund operations. Others were received as patriotic gifts, and millions were received in estate taxes.

RETIRE MUCH

Treasury experts agree that good financial practice demands retirement of at least 60 per cent of the entire issue on or before maturity in April of next year. This means that Uncle Sam will have to find the means to pay off by that time at least another billion dollars and a half. This might be done with comfort were it not for the fact that there are outstanding treasury certificates and other securities including treasury notes and war savings certificates in an aggregate amount of two and a half billion with maturities falling due ahead of the Victory loan.

This means that the treasury will have to continue the issue from time to time of short term notes which will fund the floating indebtedness represented in the treasury certificates.

The treasury is in fact in the best position it has occupied since the early days of the war. The necessity for paying off tax certificates maturing, and of retiring Victory notes can be met through the issue of blocks of new short time notes which will spread the maturities, and this is the announced treasury plan. If all goes well Uncle Sam will owe a billion dollars less at the beginning of next year than he does now.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

Bolsheviks Declare American
Money Will Aid Wrangel's
Campaign

London. — With the wickedest eye in the world as his objective, General Baron Peter Wrangel will muster his 30,000 shattered troops and enter upon a new military offensive, Bolsheviks of Russia here say they are informed.

Wrangel, former anti-Bolshevik leader in the Crimea, is one of the most picturesque characters post-war days brought forth.

He was born Aug. 15, 1873, of an old Russian noble family which had numbered many military and naval men, explorers and diplomats.

As a youth he attended college as a student of mining engineering. He became a Russian army lieutenant in 1902.

But that doesn't affect the value of Baku's oil. The wells of the district are located very near the city. Oil is piped to the city and there prepared for export.

The total output of Baku's wells sometimes amounts to 242,231,000 gallons a year!

HAS FOREIGN BACKING

To capture this prize, Bolsheviks say, some French and American oil interests will finance Wrangel's campaign.

DECORATION IN WAR

In the Russo-Japanese war he was twice promoted for bravery. As a captain of cavalry in the World War he distinguished himself on the Galician front. He became a major general.

Wrangel turned his sword against the Soviet when it came into power and became a trusted aid of Denikin, anti-Bolshevik chief.

When Denikin fell, Wrangel retired to the Crimea with Denikin's southern army and established himself as dictator of southern Russia. He secured the recognition of France.

In 1920 Wrangel's regime fell under an onslaught of the Bolsheviks. He fled with his army to Constantinople and later to Belgrade, where he is now in barracks with 30,000 men.

Baroness Wrangel, daughter of the czar's chamberlain and formerly lady-in-waiting to the czarine has accompanied her husband through all his victories and defeats.

From Our Last Issue
"Oh, yes, of course. Wonder they didn't give you a paper, though." Sabre paused on the threshold. He perfectly understood the villainous implication? Vile, intolerable! But of what service to take it up?
II
In August, the anniversary month of the war, he again offered himself for enlistment and was again rejected, but this time after a longer scrutiny; the standard was not at its first high perfection.
He was enormously cast down by his rejection. When he got back that night he went straight in to her. "I say, they've rejected me. They won't have me." His face was working. "It's that cursed heart."
She slightly puckered her brows. "Oh—do you know for the minute I couldn't think what on earth you were talking about. Were you rejected? Well, I must say I'm glad."
He said flatly, "Why are you?"
"Well, do just imagine what you'd look like in private soldier's clothing!" She laughed very heartily again.
He turned away.
CHAPTER VI
I
Up in his room he began a long letter to Nona, pouring out to her all his feelings about this second rejection. He was writing to her—and hearing from her—regularly and frequently now. It was his only vent in the oppression of these frightful days. She said that it was hers, too.

In her letters she always mentioned Tony. She wrote to Tony every day, she told him; and there were few of her letters but mentioned a parcel of some kind sent to her husband. Tony never wrote.
She once or twice said, without any comment, "But he is writing often to Mrs. Stanley and Lady Grace Heddon and Sophie Masidon and I hear bits of him from them and I know he is keeping well. Of course I pretend to them that their news is stale to me. I feel most frightfully that the best thing every woman can do in this frightful time is to do all she can for her man out there; and Tony's mine. When this is all over—oh, Marko, is it ever going to be over?—things will hurt again; but while he's out there the old things are dead and Tony's mine and England's—my man for England; that is my thought; that is my pride; that is my prayer."
And a few lines further on, "And he's so splendid. Of course you can imagine how utterly splendid he is. Lady King-Warner, his colonel's wife, told me yesterday her husband says he's brave beyond anything she could imagine. He said—she's given me his letter—the men have picked up from his story about angels at Mons and are beginning to believe they saw them. Tybar says he hopes the angels were near him, because he thought he was in hell, the particular bit he got into, and he thinks it must be good for angels, enlarging for their minds, to know what hell is like! As a matter of fact, Tybar himself is nearer to the superhuman than anything I saw knocking about at Mons. His daring and his coolness and his example are a byword in a battalion composed, my dear, with the solitary exception of the writer, entirely of heroes. In sticky places Tybar is the most wonderful thing that ever happened."
II
On the following day Tidborough, opening his newspapers shook hands with itself in all its houses, shops and offices on its own special and most glorious V. C.—Lord Tybar.
Tybar's V. C. was the first thing Sabre spoke of to Nona when, a fortnight later, she came down and he went up to her at Northrepps in the afternoon. Its brilliant gallantry, rendered so vivid to him by the intimacy with which he could see that thrice attractive figure engaged in its performance, stirred him most deeply. He had by heart every line of its official record in the restrained language of the Gazette.
The left flank of the position was insecure, and the post, when taken over, was ill prepared for defense. . . . When the battalion was suffering very heavy casualties from a 77mm. field gun at very close range, Captain Lord Tybar rushed forward under intense machine fire and succeeded in capturing the gun single-handed after killing the entire crew. . . . Later, when repeated attacks developed, he controlled the defense at the point threatened, giving personal assistance with revolver and bombs. . . . Single handed he repulsed one bombing assault. It was entirely owing to the gallant conduct of this officer that the situation was relieved.

Oh, rare and splendid spirit! Fortune's darling thrice worthy of her downy!

TARTS AS STORE
CLERK, RICH COED
WINS SUCCESS

Young Woman Leaves $5,000
Job to Go in Business for Herself

By Gene Cohn
Oakland, Cal. — Pretty Mary T. Sloss graduated from Stanford University an honor student. Her parents had money—plenty of it. Then Miss Sloss announced that she was going to take a job as a clerk in a department store.

Her friends scoffed.
"What's the use of a college education if you are going behind a counter?" they asked.

"I'm going after business success and, to get it, I'll have to start in at the bottom and learn all the tricks of the trade," Miss Sloss replied.

"If a person is really going to attain success, all ends of the business's ladder for must be mastered."

So the Stanford co-ed became a clerk at a very modest salary.

Just the other day she resigned her 000-a-year job as a buyer for the store. She had outgrown her position and gave it up to enter business for herself, with $10,000 a year ahead.

"You can round the social circles and square yourself with business at the same time," she says. "Of course my friends were shocked."

"The thing they thought I should have done was to have gone in for music, artistic dancing and esthetic exercises of one kind and another."

"But I have a $5,000 job to show for my efforts and a future that looks as double the money. And what else?"

"I still stand by what I told my friends when I left school: If you're going to be a success in business, you have to learn that business from a ground up."

Of course, a college education will help you. They want intelligent people in business. The college girl has splendid chance. If she gets down to work and—dixie, she won't stay at the clerk job."

Adventures Of
The Twins

Runaway, Feathers

What do you think Nancy and Nick did when they reached the little house?

The Green Shoes! Yes, there they were, and beside them, smiling out at his funny little eyes was the original Mushrooms.

"I thought I'd feel you a bit this time," he said. "I wondered if you could persevere to climb on you didn't find the shoes on the ground."

"You're ever so nice, Mr. Mushroom," said Nancy. "We're allowed to climb now, since Daddy nailed the use all nice and tight and put in me new boards. When we told him it wasn't a house at all, but a great big elevator that went up into the sky among the clouds, and even to the stars sometimes, he said he'd bought he'd better stop the leaks or might fall through."

"Where are you going now?" asked Mushrooms.

"Buskins said that some day he'd take us to the 'Land of Runaway Feathers,'" answered Nick. "and we hoped he would pick today."

"All right," said a cherry voice, and suddenly Buskins appeared from nowhere at all. "I'm ready. Want to come along, Mr. Mushrooms?"

The Mushrooms said he'd be glad to have a few minutes to spare on the Fairy Queen's work.

Buskins moved the iron handle, and soon all four were being lifted to the wonderful realm called the Land of Up-in-the-Air.

They passed the "Land of Lost Things" and the "Land of Lost Things" like the second and third floors of a department store. Then they passed "Soap Bubble Land" and the "Land of Everything." At floor No. 10, you might say, they stopped and out.

"Here we are!" said Buskins. "Welcome to the 'Land of Runaway Feathers.' Here comes Mr. Crane now. I told him to expect

BUY RILEY HOME AS SHRINE

The James Whitcomb Riley home at Indianapolis, where the Hoosier poet spent the last 25 years of his life, has been acquired by The James Whitcomb Riley Memorial Association and will be thrown open April 13 as a public shrine. The home was built in 1865. Miss Katie Kindell (deceased), former housekeeper for Riley, will be custodian. The home is expected to be the goal of many pilgrimages of school children and other Riley admirers.

OUR FIRST YEAR

Chapter 3—My Platonic Friend

By a Bride

WHAT'S ALREADY HAPPENED

Jack and his bride had agreed to be equal and independent friends; and to retain their liberty as individuals.

The agreement is tested the first week when Jack stays at his club to play chess instead of coming home to a specially prepared dinner. As the bride is sitting in her home her telephone rings. Joyfully she answers, thinking Jack has changed his mind about coming home. But the man who answers is not Jack.

"Hello, there!" came Bart Elliot's voice over the wire. Bart has absolutely the finest speaking voice I ever heard. It's one reason why he gets the leads at the Little Playhouse. And another reason is his strictly classic features and form.

"Glad you're in, Peggie!" the voice continued. "Ballou is assigning parts tonight. In what? 'Skoall Skoall' Old Norse bunk. Can you come over, Peggie?"

"I don't know," I faltered. "Jack isn't home. Let me think a minute."

I had not met any of the Little Playhouse company since my wedding. Certainly I did not care to see them that evening. Bart, of course, that was different. As long as I could remember, I had known Bart. But I really was not anxious to see him that evening. I didn't want to do anything except cuddle up in my new nest and mourn for my absent mate.

To Bart I explained: "Jack is solving a new chess problem. Jim Arnold picked up somewhere."

"Ah ha! Old Jim in town? Like to see him? No hope, though, if the two of 'em have a game?"

"I admit chess is more important to Jack and Jim than to me."

That sounded bitter, so I broke off abruptly.

"Good luck for us, Peggie. Their game makes it easy for you to meet the Playhouse bunch. I'll stop around for you in half an hour."

"You seem to have settled it, Bart! All right!"

I hung up the receiver feeling that it wasn't all right. Somehow it was far from right. But it was all in accord with my agreement with my husband.

Ours had seemed a sane and reasonable, if advanced and futuristic form of marriage while we were discussing it. But put to the test, I discovered that my brilliant scheme had its limitations.

Of course I trusted Jack implicitly. I believed that he had married me because he wanted me more than any other woman to wear his name and to share his fortune. "For better or worse," And I had married him because I had preferred the worst of life with him, if need be, to the best any other man could offer me.

Still I could not, as the daughter of the city's leading suffragist, and as a modern informed college graduate, I did not intend to mope at home while my man amused himself elsewhere.

And Jack didn't want me to. I reminded myself more than once that my husband and I were to be as free as if we were unmarried in our relations with other men and women.

And if Jack stopped loving me, he was to tell me. And I was not to wall and cling. That detail was to work both ways. Jack believed in my honor as I believed in his.

The theory seemed flawless. Nevertheless, as a bride of a month, I did not care to go with Bart Elliot to the Playhouse that evening.

Was it some elemental woman's instinct, some widely feeling stronger than reason, which so suddenly interfered with my cherished principles?

Horseradish

Let the root stand in cold water for an hour before shredding. The root is shredded or grated for serving.

HORSERADISH CREAM
Three tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups cream, ¼ cup grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon sugar.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Cook three minutes after all the milk is in. Add salt, pepper, sugar, vinegar and horseradish. Heat thoroughly, but do not let boil. Serve hot with boiled fish or roast beef.

HORSERADISH SAUCE
One-quarter grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, vinegar to make moist.

Mix horseradish, sugar, salt and pepper. Bruise with a wooden potato masher. Pour over vinegar to make moist, cover and let stand an hour before using.

There is a large amount of sulphur in horseradish so wooden or enamel spoons and dishes should be used if possible in its preparation.

HORSERADISH SAUCE (2)
Four tablespoons grated horseradish, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ¼ cup whipping cream.

Mix horseradish, salt, sugar, pepper and vinegar. Whip cream very stiff. Fold in first mixture just before serving.

HORSERADISH BUTTER
One-half cup butter, 1 tablespoon grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Mix horseradish, sugar, salt, pepper and lemon juice. There should be enough lemon juice to make the horseradish moist. Work butter till creamy with a fork. Beat in horseradish mixture and continue beating till thick and white.

Serve this with broiled or boiled fish.

HORSERADISH SANDWICHES
Remove crusts from white bread. Cut in thin slices. Spread with horseradish butter, add a few sprigs of watercress and cover with a slice of bread spread with plain butter.

Cut in narrow long sandwiches to serve. These sandwiches are very nice with old roast beef or a fish salad or sardines for Sunday night lunch.

HOT HORSERADISH SAUCE
This is a more economical sauce than the cream sauce, but is very good.

Two tablespoons grated horseradish, ¼ teaspoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon onion juice, pepper.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk. Season with salt, pepper and onion juice. Cook three minutes. Mix horseradish, sugar, salt, pepper and vinegar and add to sauce. Let become very hot, but do not let boil. The sauce will curdle if it boils after the horseradish and vinegar are added.

FISH
Fish, left in an open dish in the icebox, has a tendency to give a fishy flavor to milk, butter and other foods.

DAUGHTER OF MARK
TWIN WORKING TO CUT JAZZ DEMAND

Famous Humorist's Child Invited to Sing at Munich Festival

BY ALICE ROHIE

New York—It would be asking too much of human nature not to find a lively sense of humor in the daughter of Mark Twain. Yet, this brilliant young woman prefers to talk of serious things.

For instance, she is very much concerned with America's musical future. She thinks that we should make classical and high grade music as popular as cheap jazz stuff.

She's a dark-haired, dark-eyed, vital young woman with lovely complexion and—lovely cordiality.

She was already planning to return to Detroit, where her husband, Ossip Gabrilowitch, is director of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

When she discovered that I really didn't expect her to be funny or talk about her famous father her dark eyes took on a look of relief.

"I am one who believes in the great internationalism of music," she said firmly. "It's music hath charm to soothe the savage heart—why should it not be the great power to soothe all disharmonies between peoples?"

"If I could have my wish it would be to see publishers of classical music pushing it, advertising it, making it so familiar to the American people that the whole music-loving public would instinctively turn to good music."

I had come to ask her about the distinctive honor which had been bestowed upon her by musical Munich. For this famous daughter of a famous father has been invited to sing a group of historical recitals at Munich next season illustrating the growth of songs.

It is the first time that song has been the subject of this state in development—only the violin and the piano heretofore having been considered.

The success of Clara Clemens abroad was the reason she was chosen for this honor, yet the daughter of Mark Twain showed the shyness of a debutante when asked about this unusual musical recognition.

"Of course, I have studied so much abroad that it doesn't seem in the least strange to go to Munich, and sing their songs in their native language."

Still I could not, as the daughter of the city's leading suffragist, and as a modern informed college graduate, I did not intend to mope at home while my man amused himself elsewhere.

And Jack didn't want me to. I reminded myself more than once that my husband and I were to be as free as if we were unmarried in our relations with other men and women.

Wealthy Man
Holds State
Road Office

Wilmington, Del.—Francis Victor duPont might qualify as the nation's richest holder of a state office.

DuPont has been appointed a member of the Delaware State Road Commission, a position which he's held to $40,000,000, he's actively fulfilling the functions of his office.

Young duPont is the son of United States Senator T. Coleman duPont, probably America's richest national office holder.

The elder duPont, who formerly held the same office now held by his son, has given Delaware more than $3,000,000 to improve state highways.

STORY OF AUGUST BRANDT'S RISE IS TRADE ROMANCE

Opening of His New Garage on Wednesday is Important Step in Progress

providing every needed convenience for the autoist. There is a total of more than 25,000 square feet of floor space on the two floors, which will be for the Brandt company's needs for some time to come. The structure has a frontage of 80 feet on College ave. and 156 feet on Superior st. is fireproof throughout. The southeast corner is used for a display room. It is attractively arranged, with large plate glass windows and has a tile floor. Half a dozen machines may be exhibited here at once without crowding one another.

RIG STOCKROOM
Accessory display rooms and a stockroom occupy the remainder of the College ave. frontage. This department and the display room have separate entrances, and a wide garage door is located on the Superior side. Approximately 5,500 square feet of space on the north half of the main floor is given over to live storage of machines. A business office and two private offices complete the first floor quarters.

On the second floor is a spacious repair room, equipped with modern facilities for remedying the breaks and wear-and-tear on automobiles. Cars are brought to the department by means of a large elevator at the rear of the building. The elevator has a door opening onto the alley so cars may be driven on the platform without entering the first floor at all. A stockroom and overflow live storage space are part of the top floor plan. The basement houses a tire storage and a boiler room.

August Brandt began business in December, 1907 at Black Creek, renting part of the Strassburger furniture store. He dealt only in implements, employing one man as his assistant. Contracting for the Ford agency in 1912, Mr. Brandt found he needed larger quarters and rebuilt a rooming house on Black Creek's main street into a building to be used for this purpose. Mr. Brandt then was given the northern half of the county as his territory for Ford automobiles and began to erect branch garages. One of these was established at Seymour in 1915 and another at Pulaski in 1917. The company then was doing business in Brown and Shawano counties as well as in Outagamie.

MOVES TO APPLETON
Disposing of his Seymour and Pulaski branches in 1919, the garage owner then came to Appleton and opened up what then was known as Brandt-Froehlich company garage in the Schmidt building, 287-289 College ave. The 8,000 square feet of floor space was ample for the time being but the business soon grew so large that the company found itself crowded. The new establishment then was built and the business moved there Dec. 13, 1921.

August Brandt company now has the agency for a large portion of Outagamie co. for Ford automobiles, Fordson tractors and Lincoln automobiles. The original garage at Black Creek still is owned and operated by the company.
